GETTYSBURGIANS SAFE IN STORM

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eckenrode, Residents of Omaha, are not Caught in Destruction which Visited that City.

A telegram received this morning from Edward Eckenrode, of Omaha, Nebraska, by H. J. Brinkerhoff said, "Tornado didn't touch us. We are safe. Letters following."

Much concern was felt here Monday and to-day, until the above message was received, for the safety of Mr. and Mrs. Eckenrode who are residents of the city which has been visited by a tornado causing the loss of 152 lives and injuries to 330 people. Mr. Eckenrode, a son of Dr. C. E. Eckenrode, of West High street, has been in business in Omaha for a number of years, and Mrs. Eckenrode, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Brinkerhoff, of Baltimore street, has been living there since their marriage last year.

This morning's papers containing a list of the dead and the more seriously injured do not contain the names of any people well known here though a number of persons from this section and former college students are living near Omaha. It is presumed that they escaped unharmed as the lists are practically complete. Whether they suffered any loss of property is not yet known. Two brothers of Edward Eckenrode formerly resided in Omaha but they are no longer there, having engaged in business elsewhere.

From the message received this morning it is inferred that Mr. and Mrs. Eckenrode reside in a portion of Omaha where the storm did comparatively little damage and that not only they but their home escaped harm. A full account of the storm appears in another column.

WANT ARBUTUS

Effort to Make the Change Is Strongly Supported by Women.

Hailing the trailing arbutus as the flower whose history is merged with the history of the nation's independence, the Merion Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, is urging the adoption of that flower as the State's floral emblem.

The trailing arbutus, it is pointed out, was the first flower seen by the patriots at Valley Forge after their winter, it was the first American flower seen by the pilgrims of New England, who called it "Mayflower" after their vessel; it was known to the early Virginians and used by them to decorate there at the first Easter celebrated at Jamestown; its flowers are shaped like five-pointed American stars, and its leaves are green like laurels; its flowers are already represented in the American flag, only slightly conventionalized; its habitat is the thirteen original states; it is peculiarly American; there is but one species; the finest specimens occur in neighborhoods consecrated to Revolutionary history and it loves liberty and resists cultivation.

LIKELY TO KEEP VETERANS A WEEK

Railroads Consider Proposition to Bring First Section of Veterans to This Place on Sunday Preceding Anniversary.

In order to handle the crowds who will attend the battle anniversary celebration here in July it is probable that the two railroads entering Gettysburg will start the work of transportation on Sunday evening, June 29, and that they will continue until the following Sunday, July 6.

The railroads have come to the realization that it will be impossible to get the veterans and their friends here in any other way and in all probability this plan will be adopted. Should the veterans start to arrive on Sunday evening it will, of course, be necessary that provision be made for them in the camp and it is thought likely that the War Department will make the necessary plans to accommodate them.

The problem of storing the passenger cars at Gettysburg is a big one in itself. Last year it was necessary to take some trains on up the Western Maryland to other stations in order to get trackage for storage. Those crowds were small compared to the ones expected this year.

Six additional tracks will be laid in the Reading yards in the next few weeks, giving the station ten in all, in addition to the ones at the passenger depot. Six of these, with a capacity of 108 cars, will be for passenger use and the other four for freight cars. It was stated on good authority some time ago that the Western Maryland would put in additional yards east of town but there has since been no definite news along that line.

The proposition of bringing the veterans here several days before the opening of the anniversary and keeping them until after its close will mean just that much more work for the town. Realizing the difficulty of getting to Gettysburg at the rush season many visitors are preparing to come here the week previous and will bring along tents. These companies expect to bring anywhere from one to two hundred tents and are writing to find grounds on which to place them. As yet we have heard of no one who is anxious to stand guard over the belongings of the campers while they are out participating in the festivities.

REWARD INCREASED

Commission Increases Reward for Battlefield Vandal to $500.

The National Park Commission has increased the reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the party who mutilated monuments on the Gettysburg Battlefield several weeks ago from $100 to $500. Persons who give information will be reimbursed for any liability on account of such information. There has been no development in the case since the discovery was first made and the identity of the vandal remains as much a mystery as the motive which prompted the crime.

LOST WILL FOUND

Hassler and letters were issued to him and the will was probated.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE AGAIN

Enthusiasts Want Another Season but Think it will only be Half as Long as in Other Years. Various Considerations.

Gettysburg's base ball fans who watched with interest the progress of last year's Sunday School League and who retained their interest in it, notwithstanding the numerous trials and tribulations through which it passed, are now discussing and making plans for a similar series of games during the coming summer.

It is generally conceded that it will be impossible to carry out a schedule such as was arranged and completed last year and which provided that every team play two games with every other in the league. This made a total of thirty games. Toward the end of the season darkness frequently fell before more than two innings had been played and the closing games were rushed through in order to get in the necessary five innings.

It is impossible to get the use of Nixon Field before commencement which occurs on June 11. Two weeks later the Grand Army encampment and the Sons of Veterans gathering will occur here and there will be no base ball that week. The fiftieth anniversary celebration and the attending excitement will continue until July 10 at least, so that little, if any, baseball will be played up to that time.

The plan now advanced is that just half as long a schedule be played as in other years and that each of the six teams play only one game with each of the others. A meeting for the final decision on this and on the rules for the coming summer will be held in the near future.

Should the base ball diamond on the new Kurtz playground be completed before June this would simplify matters considerably but that is unlikely for a large amount of grading must be done and the field would not be in condition for some weeks after actual operations started.

WENT TO CHURCH

Horses Gallop at Full Speed up Baltimore Street to Church.

A double team belonging to Edward Weikert, of near Greenmont, ran away from the Gettysburg Department Store warehouse this morning and created a lot of excitement on the principal streets of town but did little damage. The horses came up York street at full tilt and galloped through the Square to Baltimore street. They continued on up Baltimore street to High and then on High street to the Reformed church where they slowed down and walked up to the hitching post where Mr. Weikert is accustomed to tie while attending services. The team was found there soon afterward, intact and with no damage to either horses or wagon. A number of people tried to stop the horses as they traveled through town but none succeeded and several persons had narrow escapes in getting out of their way.

MR. BAUGHMAN WANTS THE GRAY

Gettysburg Citizen Writes to Philadelphia Paper Answering Man who Wants to See no Gray Uniforms here this Year.

Otis G. Baughman, of West Middle street, has replied through the columns of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin to the letter it published a week ago protesting against the wearing of the Gray at Gettysburg in July. Mr. Baughman says:

"Sir: I do not wish it to be understood that I am a Confederate sympathizer. I have resided in the North and have been a good Union man all my life, before, during and since the war, but at this late day, when we live in peace, as a united country, far be it for me to be so narrow-minded as 'Mr. Bradley,' and publicly express myself in the bitter sentiments of enmity and hatred as he has done. We are to have a celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg. The Blue and the Gray will meet together in reunion; in peace, not in strife, as 'Mr. B.'s' expressions would indicate. All, North and South, who attend this celebration are looking forward to having a good time and enjoying themselves and all will return to their homes with the assurance that we live in a time of peace as a united country."

At the January meeting of the Pennsylvania Commission, held in Philadelphia, General Felix H. Robertson, of Texas, well said: "That the Gettysburg reunion was not to celebrate a victory, but to celebrate peace," and at this same meeting Governor Tener, without any hesitation, notwithstanding what General Wagner said, gave the Confederate veterans permission to wear their old gray uniforms, if they so desired. The Governor further said: "They will be as heartily welcome at Gettysburg as the man in blue, even if they came in the old gray uniforms, which they wore at Gettysburg fifty years ago; whether the uniform be of blue or gray, the wearer will be heartily welcome."

What is "Mr. B." going to do about it? If he so much dislikes and hates the gray uniform, he must deprive himself of attending the celebration. The only flag to be prominently displayed and unfurled to the breeze will be the Stars and Stripes; this has also been decided, so "Mr. B." doesn't need to worry about this part of the celebration. I speak for thousands when I say we do not despise and hate the gray uniform as "Mr. B." does; if thousands were like him there would be contention, strife and unrest all the time. The time has long since passed when any person in a united, peaceful country like ours should think of, much less undertake to do, what "Mr. B." has done, to vent his enmity, hatred and prejudice upon a people who are with us and who are manfully struggling to recover from the ravages and disastrous effects of the war. The fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg will be inscribed on the pages of history and handed down to future generations, to teach them, not war, but peace; it will inculcate into their minds and hearts that higher, grander and nobler principle of "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

O. G. BAUGHMAN.

Blocks of Buildings Are Laid in Ruins.

PROPERTY LOSS ENORMOUS

Residence Section of Nebraska Town Swept by Wind and Fire—Troops Guard Ruins—Many Killed or Injured at Other Places.

Omaha, Neb., March 25.—Fully 100 persons were killed, 200 badly injured and hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of property was destroyed by the tornado which swept through Omaha and its suburbs in a path four to six blocks wide and more than eight miles long.

The streets are filled with wreckage of houses, uprooted trees and tangled electric wires. Street car movement is impossible, wagon and automobile travel almost so. More than 150 residences were destroyed and 250 badly damaged.

The list of dead, although already a long one, is believed by those who have been over a good part of the devastated territory to be but a beginning. Fire, which broke out in many of the wrecked buildings, added to the horrors of the situation. All fires have been put out.

The first and main storm struck Ralston, three miles west of South Omaha, and moved in a northeasterly direction through the city of Omaha. The only point at which the force of the storm struck the business section was Twenty-fourth and Lake streets. Here the Diamond theater, a moving picture concern, well filled, was wrecked. According to the best available figures at least thirty of the patrons were killed. Between forty and fifty more were killed in the wreck of a pool hall nearby, which was patronized by negroes.

The well defined path of the storm ended at Carter lake, near the Mississippi river, north of the city. Fire broke out in the ruins and wrecked buildings. The fires burned themselves out except in instances where flames were brought under control of volunteer "bucket brigades."

The second storm swept across the Missouri river, doing considerable damage in Council Bluffs.

Figures compiled place the number of known dead in Council Bluffs at nine, with a score injured.

Governor Morehead, Mayor Dahlman and Police Commissioner Ryder, of Omaha, thought that 200 might be dead. Reports from Council Bluffs were to the effect that four more bodies had been recovered from the ruins of homes there. The list of injured is expected to reach more than the estimates. Many have been found in the homes of friends, where they took refuge after the storm.

After visiting the scene of the storm Governor Morehead issued orders for the mobilization of three companies of the state militia from outside the city. The local companies were already at work assisting the police and regular soldiers from Fort Creek, together with the city firemen, in the work of rescue.

The morgues and hospitals were besieged by friends and relatives of the dead and injured and others made frantic efforts to learn of the fate of loved ones. Although a line of soldiers and police was thrown around the path of the storm soon after it had passed, much looting was reported.

Just as soon as the extent of the disaster was understood by the citizens a relief fund was started. Within an hour thousands of dollars had been contributed. Many of the city's wealthiest men were back of the movement. Public buildings were thrown open as a place of refuge for the sufferers. Nearly every home within a dozen miles of the stricken district is filled with unfortunate. All the hospitals in the three cities—Omaha, South Omaha and Council Bluffs—are filled, and in many on them the halls and corridors are crowded with cots.

Storm's Sweep in City.

The stretch of Omaha covered by the tornado reaches from the southern limits to the suburb of Florence, six miles north of its origin. The storm swept the western part of the city for its entire length, following the west side of the valley, extending along the Missouri river bluffs. The eastern half of the city—generally composing the business section—was out of the path of the storm, but suffered greatly. The section damaged is the residential section. A number of outlying business thoroughfares also are in the destroyed area.

Omaha's suburbs suffered heavily from the storm. Ralston, southwest of Omaha, was razed and a half score or more were dead. East Omaha, which felt the full force of the "twister," reported houses demolished, but no lives lost. Council Bluffs, Iowa, suffered nine dead, a score or more injured and great damage to property.

The worst damage was done and the largest toll of lives was exacted in the western part of Omaha and in the vicinity of Twenty-fourth and Lake streets, and from there northeast to Sixteenth and Binney streets. This is the residence portion of Omaha, and the destruction wrought was great. Whole blocks of houses were picked up and dashed into a shapeless mass. Street cars were hurled from the tracks and demolished.

Several persons were killed, houses were unroofed and many thousands of dollars of damage was done at Woodbine, Iowa, according to reports. Several persons are reported killed at Craig, Neb., and Ackley and Carroll, Iowa.

The loss of life and property in Iowa was less severe, according to messages from the several districts. Dust storms, rain, hail and tremendous electrical disturbances prevailed over Kansas and Nebraska.

JAMES C. DAHLMAN.

Mayor of Omaha, Who Is in Charge of Relief Work.

From the Field club, which is in the western part of the city, to the Carter Lake club, situated at the northeast extremity, is one mass of debris from two to six blocks wide. Federal soldiers from Fort Omaha assisted the police in keeping looters and morbid curiosity seekers at bay. The presence of the soldiers gives the city the appearance of being under martial law.

Ten persons are known to be dead, and it is believed the list will reach fifteen, at Yutan, about thirty-five miles northwest of Omaha.

Valley Still, a town north of Yutan, was reported hard hit, with ten or more persons missing and many others injured.

TERRE HAUTE HIT HARD

24 Dead in Indiana and 200 Homes Destroyed.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 15.—Twenty-four victims of the tornado, which swept the southern part of Terre Haute and Vigo county, have been identified and more than seventy-five injured were being cared for in improvised hospitals.

Several more bodies are expected to be found when the ruins of 200 homes, leveled by the storm, have been cleared away.

At the request of Mayor Gerhardt, Governor B. of the Indiana National Guard, to patrol the devastated district and help in rescue work.

More than 150 persons were made homeless by the "twister" and the city council appropriated $500 to start a relief fund.

Telephone messages from Princeton, nine miles south of Terre Haute, state that nearly every house in the town has been destroyed and that many homes between Terre Haute and that place have been leveled.

Torrential rains accompanied the tornado and probably saved many persons, glanced under the wreckage, from burning to death, as electric wires and lightning set fire to several parts of the ruins.

FOUR FOUND SHOT DEAD AFTER FIRE

Farmer, Wife, Little Girl and Neighbor Were Slain.

FIND RIFLE AND SHOTGUN

Burning of Farm House at Williams-town, N. J., Was to Hide Evidence of Greater Crime.

Williamstown, N. J., March 25.—Leo Wharton, his wife, Mary; their six-year-old daughter, Lillian, and John-ston Hemphill, a neighbor, whose bodies were found after a fire which destroyed the Wharton farmhouse, near here, probably were shot to death before the blaze.

Examination of their bodies was made by Coroner Stultz, of Gloucester county, and the coroner's physician, Dr. Duffield.

Part of Wharton's heart was shot away, and the top of his head either had been blown or burned off. The woman had been shot through the back with a gun. Three ribs were broken.

A flattened bullet was in the child's brain, a lung was punctured, ribs were caved in, and the body crushed. Hemphill had a bullet in his heart and the body was riddled with gun-shot.

Both Hemphill and Mrs. Wharton were wounded in a way to indicate that the assailant had stood above them when he fired.

The officials have two theories. The first is that Wharton, enraged to the point of insanity by the belief that Hemphill had been too attentive to his wife, attacked the man, bringing on a gun duel in which the woman and child were either purposely or accidentally shot.

The other theory is that burglars broke into the farmhouse, were surprised at their work, shot the occupants of the little dwelling and then set the place on fire to cover up the crime.

Had there been a duel between Wharton and Hemphill, the fire might have been started accidentally by the men in their struggle overturning a stove. Or a chicken incubator in the kitchen might have exploded, the investigators point out.

Mrs. Wharton and the child, fragments of a night dress still clinging to the girl's charred body, were found under a twisted heap of bed-springs. Wharton was found in that part of the cellar which had been under the dining room. Hemphill's body was found under what had been the kitchen. Hemphill was dressed, and, from his position, apparently had been trying to get out of the kitchen door when the collapse came.

The barrel of a 22-caliber rifle and the double barrels of a shotgun, containing a recently exploded cartridge were found in the cellar.

Williamstown is twenty-three miles from Philadelphia. The Whartons moved to their farm of thirty acres near Williamstown four years ago, coming from Yardley. Wharton, who had been a carpenter, bought the farm from Hemphill. Since then Hemphill had been foreman on the farm of Miss I. J. Stanger, about a mile from the Wharton place.

A strong friendship sprang up between Hemphill and Wharton. The two men were often seen working together on the Wharton place, and practically every day Hemphill would carry milk to the little farm. Mrs. Wharton once told a friend that Hemphill had done so much for them that she regarded him almost as a brother.

According to Miss Stanger, Wharton some time ago told his wife, who had reproved him for not taking her out often, that Hemphill would take her. There never had been any quarreling, as far as she knew, about Wharton's failure to go out with his wife, Miss Stanger said.

According to David S. Champion, however, Wharton had told his son, Vernon Champion, that things were "not right" at the Wharton home. Vernon Champion, a contractor, employed Wharton at times.

About the middle of last week Hemphill announced that he was going in to Williamstown on Saturday. On the afternoon of that day Mrs. Wharton and Hemphill drove in to Williamstown in Wharton's carriage. Wharton was noticed about his place in the afternoon, although it had been said that he had been observed in Williamstown.

Still another rumor had it that Wharton told his wife at noon Saturday that he was going to New York and would not be back until Sunday night. There are some who say that Wharton was seen to alight from a late train at Williamstown Saturday night.

$2000 CHECK IN COLLECTION

Pastor Becomes Ill When He Looks at Generous Donation.

Altoona, Pa., March 25.—When he observed a check for $2000 in the collection plate at his church, Rev. Horace Lincoln Jacobs, pastor of the First Methodist church, of this city, was taken suddenly ill and the church services were cut short.

Rev. Jacobs had not been in the best of health, but managed to conduct the services as usual. After the offering had been lifted and Rev. Jacobs had offered up a short prayer he glanced at a check calling for $2000. The check, unsolicited, had been placed on the plate by an Altoona merchant.

Rev. Jacobs returned to the pulpit, but found himself growing suddenly weak. The services were cut short and the audience was dismissed, while the preacher was taken to his bed.

MASS MEETING MAY BE HELD FOR ALLENS

Hope For Condemned Men is Practically Abandoned.

Richmond, Va., March 25.—Hope for Floyd and Claude Allen is practically abandoned, although the attorneys will fight for the younger man until the last moment.

It is rumored that sympathizers of the condemned men will hold an open air meeting tomorrow afternoon in the Capitol square, protesting against Governor Mann's refusal to commute the sentence of Claude Allen.

Cooler heads are urging that the proposed demonstration be abandoned, but it is likely that the state militia will be called out to check them.

Governor Mann said: "My final action in the cases of Floyd and Claude Allen was taken after mature and studious deliberation. It was not a hastily formed conclusion, but was based upon conviction. It was absolutely final."

Luther L. Scherer, of the prison directorship, delivered to the doomed men the report of the refusal of the supreme court of the United States to grant their plea. The men received the fatal words without emotion. They are visited daily by preachers and are ready for the end on Friday next.

SUSPECTED OF BIG THEFT

Milwaukee Police Believe They Have Much Sought Robbers.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 25.—The leader and one other of what is said to be one of the cleverest gangs of crooks in the country are, the Milwaukee police department believes, now at the central station, charged with complicity in a jewelry store burglary at Rochester, N. Y., on Feb. 14. Two others escaped when a raid was made on their room at a hotel.

It is thought that the men under arrest may have had a hand in the robbery of Simon's pawn shop in New York recently of $300,000 in jewels and securities.

They had rubber gloves in their possession and a large quantity of safe blowing apparatus. The rubber gloves, it is supposed, were to be used when committing their alleged depredations in order to avoid finger prints, through which identification might be established.

Visitor Falls Three Stories.

Lancaster, Pa., March 25.—Cecil C. Mahan, a Coatesville blacksmith, who registered at the Imperial hotel, fell out of a third-story window. An air-belt broke his fall and he sustained serious but not fatal injuries. A large number of residents of Coatesville came to Lancaster for liquor and a taxi cab went home intoxicated.

Trading Your Old Car for a New One

Don't Be Deceived in Cars That are Made for Trading

If you are trading your old automobile for a new one, here is a caution you should observe.

There are cars toward the purchase of which a larger price will be allowed for your present automobile than you can obtain in buying a more desirable automobile.

It is better to decide upon which car you will prefer. Satisfy yourself that it is the best buy at a cash price, and that it is the one you would choose if you were paying cash. Then if you are selling your old car, obtain the best bargain possible.

But do not accept merely for the sake of a change in cars, an automobile that you do not consider advisable at a cash price.

HUDSONS are not made to trade. HUDSON automobiles "second-hand" command a higher price proportionate to their original cost than those of any other make in the medium price class.

They are not sold to the dealer at a large discount thus permitting him to make an extra allowance for old cars. No more profit on the HUDSON is allowed than that given on most automobiles at similar prices.

The quality of the car is to be depended upon to make the sale, not the inducement of price. That is why 48 engineers are regularly employed by the Hudson Motor Car Company in designing HUDSON automobiles. That is a larger number than any other manufacturer in the industry employs.

The HUDSON is the composite expression of what all these men know.

They gained their knowledge of motor car building in 97 well-known American and European factories. They had a hand in building more than 200,000 cars. No restrictions were put upon them in building the New HUDSON in order to obtain the highest quality. Price was not fixed. Quality was established and because of their wider training and superior cleverness, they were able to build the car from $1000 to $1500 less than similar quality was ever before obtained.

Electric Self-Cranking---Electrically Lighted

HUDSON Cars Are Completely Equipped They are electric self-cranking, are electric lighted and have every detail of equipment including speedometer, clock, demountable rims, rain vision windshield, tools, etc.

There are two models. HUDSON cars are furnished in two chassis—the "37," a four-cylinder, and the "54," a six.

The equipment is identical in both cars, consisting of an electric cranking device, electric lighting generator and ignition system, known as the Delco Patented.

The equipment is complete in every respect including top, rain vision, windshield, demountable rims, speedometer, clock, tools, etc.

The "37" has a 118-inch wheel base.

The "54" has a 127-inch wheel base.

The "37" is offered with either a Five-Passenger Touring car, Torpedo or Roadster body at $1875.

The "54" with either Five-Passenger Touring body, Torpedo or Roadster is $2450. With the Seven-Passenger body it is $2600. These prices are all f. o. b. Detroit.
